

Measuring Success

The 2019 Census of Women Directors and Executive Officers of Massachusetts Public Companies

THE BOSTON CLUB
ADVANCING WOMEN LEADERS

BENTLEY
UNIVERSITY

The Boston Club is the community of women business and professional leaders dedicated to promoting the advancement of women into significant and visible leadership roles. Our ambition is to have a lasting and meaningful impact on business performance and the economic health of our communities. Our internal focus is to connect and enrich women leaders from a diverse set of backgrounds and experiences. Our external activities measure the progress of women in corporations, place women on corporate and nonprofit boards, celebrate organizations that elevate women leaders, and engage in public discourse about the importance of the issues. The annual Census of women directors and executive officers plays a major role in The Boston Club's Corporate Board Program, focusing attention on the identification and development of a vital pool of female expertise for corporate leadership positions. We believe that it is important to publicize the track record of Massachusetts' largest public companies in opening the doors of their boardrooms and executive suites to talented women.

Bentley University is more than just one of the nation's top business schools. It is a transformative lifelong-learning community that inspires and prepares ethical students to use their business know-how to make a positive difference in the world. With a blend of business, technology and the arts and sciences, Bentley provides students with critical thinking and practical skills to help them collaborate effectively in different settings and prepare them to lead successful, rewarding careers. The University enrolls approximately 4,200 undergraduate and 1,000 master's level and doctoral students. Bentley was founded in 1917 and is set on 163 acres in Waltham, Massachusetts, 10 miles west of Boston. Bentley's Center for Women and Business aims to prepare women for leadership positions from the classroom to the boardroom through a variety of programs. Bentley has proudly sponsored the publication of The Boston Club's annual Census report from its inception. This is the 17th Census report for which Bentley is pleased to have provided the research and analysis.

A Message from The Boston Club

In 2003, early in a new century, The Boston Club published its first Census of Women Directors and Executive Officers. At the time, our then-Club President said that one of the major reasons for undertaking this annual research was that “what gets measured, gets done.” In this Census, our seventeenth, you will see that phrase repeated. We believe that the information provided in our previous annual Census reports has indeed served as an impetus for change, bringing the lack of gender diversity on corporate boards and in executive suites into focus in Massachusetts. We know that board chairs, nominating committees, institutional investors and individual shareholders have monitored progress, and sometimes changed policy or direction, as a result of the Census results.

The Census reports have provided us opportunities to connect and collaborate with other women’s organizations, institutional investors, public officials, and the many men who support advancing women’s leadership. They have helped to provide a national picture of efforts being made to increase diversity in corporate leadership, while highlighting the ways in which Massachusetts has led – or lagged behind.

In 2003, 50 of the largest 100 public companies in Massachusetts had no women on their boards of directors, and women held only 74 of the 822 total board seats. 56 of the 100 companies had no women executive officers. In this 2019 Census, women comprise a record high 24.0% of the total board seats, and 98 companies have at least one woman director. Only one company among the 100 has no women directors or executive officers, down from 8 “zero-zeroes” just last year.

While we celebrate this progress, it is clear that our work in measuring and reporting is not yet over. 35 Census companies still have no women in their executive suites. Women of color are only 3.2% of the directors in Census companies. Over the past few years, we have seen and welcomed stronger public support for gender and racial diversity in public company leadership, and we will continue to track the resulting changes.

We will also continue to build a strong pipeline of women qualified to lead, and to connect them with the CEOs and nominating committees looking to strengthen their organizations. We will continue to support further transparency in corporate governance, making boardrooms and executive suites open to more diverse populations, especially in those industries that have been slow to change. And we will focus even more attention on the dozens of board seats that will become available over the next few years as older directors move on.

At The Boston Club, we continue to believe that “what gets measured, gets done.” We commit to reporting change annually and to sharing the information with you. In return, we hope you will join us in working to advance women’s leadership to the benefit of all of us.

Most sincerely,

From Bentley University

Strong partnerships play such an important role in the success of colleges and universities—particularly for a business school like Bentley. For many years, we’ve been proud to partner with dynamic organizations to open doorways for our students and alumni. Organizations such as The Boston Club train a critical spotlight on the workplaces that our students join upon graduation, with a focus on networking and advocacy to effect change. These are powerful tools, as we prepare a new generation of leaders who understand the value of diverse opinions, backgrounds and experiences.

In today’s heightened climate around gender issues, the annual Census report is both a reality check and a call to action. It puts hard numbers to women’s representation in the C-suites and boardrooms of Massachusetts companies. Gains are significant in some cases and modest in others, the latter despite the weight of research showing the positive impact of gender diversity on operations, productivity and financial performance.

Whatever the pace of change, we applaud your work and that of the Bentley faculty and students who help collect and analyze the relevant data. Benchmarking and accountability are essential to build positive workplaces that engage different voices and viewpoints.

2019 Key Findings

This year's Census, the 17th edition, is a terrific example of “what gets measured, gets done.” Over the past year, more women than in the past have joined these corporate boards, a greater share of the directors are women of color, only two Census companies continue to operate with all-male boards, only one has no women in either its boardroom or its executive suite, more than twice as many companies have 30% or more of female executive officers, and increasing numbers of women are playing leadership roles as board or committee chairs. While celebrating these positive outcomes, the Census data also document several gaps and areas for improvement. We know we are not finished yet and will continue measuring what needs to get done.

Significant Progress This Year

- ▶ Women comprise a record high 24.0% of the board seats in the 2019 Census companies, up from 21.0% last year.
- ▶ 98 of the 100 Census companies have at least one woman on their board, nine more than in 2018.
- ▶ Only one Census company has no women directors or executive officers this year, compared to eight “zero-zeroes” a year ago.
- ▶ Women accounted for over half (52.6%) of the independent directors added to the Census companies this year, up from 41.7% a year ago.
- ▶ Directors of Census companies who are women of color rose over 30%, from 22 to 29 this year.
- ▶ Women account for at least 30% of the executive officers at 21 of the Census companies, up from 10 companies last year.

But We Are Not Finished

- ▶ Women hold just 16.3% of the executive officer positions in Census companies.
- ▶ 35 Census companies still have no women in their executive suites.
- ▶ Women of color are just 3.2% of the Census directors.
- ▶ The Technology sector, which accounts for 26% of the Census companies, continues to trail all other sectors, and, in fact, has fewer women executive officers this year than last.

2019 Census Results

Women Directors

The Census of Women Directors and Executive Officers is based on the 100 largest public companies in Massachusetts. 93 of these companies appear in both the 2018 and 2019 Census reports and are referred to as “the continuing Census companies.”*

In 2019 the Census companies have 899 directors on their boards, which is 36 more than a year ago. The vast majority of these directors are “independent,” in contrast to “insider” directors. The 2019 Census companies include 730 (81.2%) independent directors and 169 (18.8%) insider directors.

Gender Diversity Continues to Grow

- ▶ Women hold 24.0% (216) of the seats on the 2019 Census company boards. This is 3.0% more than a year ago and represents 35 more directors.
- ▶ Women account for 27.5% of the independent directors, up from 23.9% a year ago.
- ▶ 98 of the 100 Census companies now have a least one woman on their board. This, too, is a new record and is an increase of nine companies from last year.
- ▶ 71 of the Census companies have two or more female directors, up from 61 a year ago.
- ▶ 33 of the Census companies have three or more female directors, nine more than last year.
- ▶ In four Census companies, women comprise 50% or more of the independent directors, and in two others, women are at least 40% of the independent directors.

More Women of Color Directors

- ▶ 29 directors of the Census companies are women of color, seven more than a year ago.
- ▶ Women of color now account for 3.2% of all Census directors, up from 2.5% last year.

Note: Although we do not specifically designate those women directors who are women of color in Appendix B, we confirm the accuracy of our identification with the corporate secretaries or general counsel of all Census companies.

*The seven companies in the 2019 Census that were not in last year’s report are: Alexion Pharmaceuticals, Inc.; BJ’s Wholesale Club Holdings, Inc.; Carbonite, Inc.; Collegium Pharmaceutical, Inc.; Keurig Dr Pepper, Inc.; Sarepta Therapeutics, Inc.; and Vicor Corporation. One continuing Census company changed its name over the past year: Government Properties Income Trust became Office Properties Income Trust.

“Insider” directors, also known as “interested” directors, have a material direct or indirect relationship with the company or related persons.

Boston Private Financial Holdings, Inc., Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc., Five Star Senior Living Inc. and Office Properties Income Trust have 50% or more. (See Appendix A.) The appointment of Shacey Petrovic as CEO of Insulet resulted in parity on its board as well. The independent directors of General Electric and The TJX Companies consist of at least 40% women.

Insider Directors and Those Serving on Multiple Boards

- ▶ 8.8% (15) of the 171 insider directors in the 2019 Census companies are women. Four are CEOs of their companies: Linda Heasley (J.Jill, Inc.), Mary Anne Heino (Lantheus Holdings, Inc.), Shacey Petrovic (Insulet Corporation), and Mary Puma (Axcelis Technologies, Inc.). Katherine Potter is also CEO of a Census company, Five Star Senior Living Inc., but she is not a director.
- ▶ 12 women serve on more than one of the Census company boards. Ten are directors on two of the boards, while two women serve on three of the boards. (See Appendix B.)

New Directors

The 93 continuing Census companies added 76 new independent directors this year, and 13 new insiders.

- ▶ For the first time, women accounted for over half (52.6%) of the new independent directors joining Census company boards this year. 40 women independent directors were added to the Census companies this year, compared to 30 (41.7%) a year ago.
- ▶ One of the new insider directors this year is female*, compared to three last year.
- ▶ Women of color accounted for 9.2% (7) of all independent directors added to Census company boards this past year, and 17.5% of the new female directors.
- ▶ Eight (88.9%) of the nine continuing companies that had all-male boards in the 2018 Census added one or more women to their boards this year. Six of these companies added one woman director; two added two new female board members.

Director Status: Room for Improvement

- ▶ 28 Census companies have just one woman director, including four that have a woman executive on their boards and all male independent directors.
- ▶ Women of color account for just 3.2% of all directors of the Census companies.
- ▶ Women are just 24.0% of the directors of the Census companies.

*Shacey Petrovic, President & CEO, Insulet Corporation

Acacia Communications, Inc.; Atlantic Power Corporation; CarGurus, Inc.; Kadant Inc.; Novanta Inc.; and Virtusa Corporation each added one woman director. Endurance International Group Holdings, Inc. and TripAdvisor, Inc. added two women to their boards.

Axcelis Technologies, Inc., Chase Corporation, Global Partners LP, MACOM Technology Solutions Holdings, Inc.

Opportunities for Adding New Directors

Age and tenure patterns of the Census companies suggest numerous opportunities for adding new independent directors in the next few years.

Retired Directors

- ▶ 51 independent directors and 12 insider directors left the boards of the continuing Census companies this past year.
- ▶ Of those who left these boards, 13 were aged 75 or older (including 2 women); another 10 were aged 70 to 74 (including 1 woman).
- ▶ Most of the directors who left these boards were male. 17.6% (9) of the independent directors who left were female; 7.7% (1) of the insiders leaving was female.

Age Patterns

- ▶ The independent directors of the Census companies range in age from 34 to 87. The average age for independent directors who are male is 63.0 years and for women 58.6 years.
- ▶ 6.2% (45) of the independent directors are under 50 years old; 27.5% (200) are 50 to 59; and 45.0% (327) are 60 to 69.
- ▶ 21.2% (154) of the independent directors are at least 70 years old, including 7.4% (54) who are 75 years of age or older.
- ▶ Women account for 7.8% (12) of the independent directors who are 70 years and older, and 1.9% (1) of those 75 and above.
- ▶ At 12 Census companies (down from 15 last year), 50% or more of the independent directors are 70 or older.*

Board Tenure

- ▶ 14.0% (102) of the independent directors of the Census companies have served for at least 15 years. Women account for 16 (15.7%) of these directors.
- ▶ 2.5% (18) of the independent directors have served for at least 25 years. Four of these directors (22.2%) are women.
- ▶ At five of the Census companies, at least 50% of the independent directors have served for at least 15 years.

*Ameresco, Inc.; Brookline Bancorp, Inc.; Brooks Automation, Inc.; Chase Corporation; Cognex Corporation; Eversource Energy; Global Partners LP; Kadant Inc.; MACOM Technology Solutions Holdings, Inc.; Safety Insurance Group, Inc.; Senior Housing Properties Trust; and Unifirst Corp.

American Outdoor Brands Corporation; Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc.; Five Star Senior Living Inc.; Safety Insurance Group, Inc. and Vicor Corporation.

Women Executive Officers

The 100 largest public companies in Massachusetts have a total of 683 executive officers, four more than a year ago.

Progress in Some Executive Suites

- ▶ Women account for 40% or more of the executive officers in nine Census companies, up from four a year ago. (See Appendix A.)
- ▶ Women account for at least 30% of the executive officers at 21 of the Census companies, up from 10 companies last year.
- ▶ There are 15 more women executive officers in the Census companies this year than last, representing a 15.6% increase.
- ▶ Three more Census companies (64) have at least one woman executive officer this year than last.
- ▶ The number of Census companies with two or more women in their executive suites rose to 29 this year, two more than a year ago.
- ▶ 12 Census companies have three or more woman executive officers.*

Still Too Few Women Executive Officers

- ▶ 36 of the Census companies still have no women executive officers.
- ▶ Despite the progress noted above, women now hold just 16.3% (111) of the executive officer positions in the Census companies.
- ▶ Three of the continuing Census companies that had a woman in the executive suite in 2018, now have none.
- ▶ Only 6.9% of the executive officers in the Census companies in the Technology sector are women, and this percentage declined since last year.

*Alexion Pharmaceuticals, Inc.; Biogen Inc.; BJ's Wholesale Club Holdings, Inc.; The Boston Beer Company, Inc.; Boston Private Financial Holdings, Inc.; Boston Scientific Corporation; Forrester Research, Inc.; Iron Mountain Incorporated; Keurig Dr Pepper Inc.; Lantheus Holdings, Inc.; LPL Financial Holdings Inc.; State Street Corporation.

Analog Devices, Inc.; Mercury Systems, Inc.; and Ribbon Communications Inc.

Top-Paid Executives

There are 513 top-paid executives in the 100 Census companies this year, 24 more than in 2018.

Limited Progress

- ▶ Women comprise 9.6% (49) of the top-paid executives of the Census companies this year, increasing their share by 0.4% this year.
- ▶ Six more companies, 43 up from 37, have at least one woman among their top-paid executives.
- ▶ Women account for 30% or more of the top-paid executives in eight companies, down one from a year ago.*

Top-Paid Women Executives Continue to be Rare

- ▶ Women account for less than 10% of the top-paid executives in the 2019 Census companies.
- ▶ The majority (57) of the 100 Census companies have no women among their top-paid executives.

*Alexion Pharmaceuticals, Inc.; Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc.; Casa Systems, Inc.; Collegium Pharmaceutical, Inc.; Haemonetics Corporation; J.Jill, Inc.; Kadant Inc.; Senior Housing Properties Trust.

Company Size and Industry Sector

Company Size

The largest Census companies, i.e., those with $5 billion or more in net revenues, have returned to having, on average, the highest percentages of women directors and executive officers.

- ▶ Census companies with $1 billion or more in net revenues increased their average share of women directors to over 25%. Those with $1 billion to $4.9 billion in net revenues rose to 26.3% from 20.9% a year ago, while those with $5 billion or more increased to 27.2% from 22.0%.
- ▶ The smallest size category of Census companies, those with less than $500 million in net revenues, expanded its share of women directors to 21.6% up from 20.0% a year ago.
- ▶ In contrast, Census companies with net revenues between $500 and $999 million had a lower share of women directors this year than last, falling from 22.2% to 21.3%. These companies also registered a decline on average in their women executive officers, from 16.0% to 12.7%.
- ▶ In the executive suites of the largest Census companies, the share of women executive officers rose from 8.4% last year to 20.5% in 2019. The addition to the Census this year of BJ's Wholesale Club Holdings, Inc. and Keurig Dr Pepper Inc contributed to these gains, as 23.1% and 27.3%, respectively, of their executive officers are female.
- ▶ Census companies with $1 billion to $4.9 billion in net revenues and those with less than $500 million on average expanded their shares of female executive officers this past year to 17.2% and 15.0%, respectively.

Industry Sector

All of the industry sectors in the Census showed increases in the share of women directors this year, and all but one sector experienced increases in the percentage of their female executive officers.

- ▶ Each of the six industry sectors of Census companies experienced growth, between 1.4% and 5.0%, in the share of women directors this year.
- ▶ The Services sector continued to have the greatest share of women directors, this year with 30.2%, followed by Financial Services with 27.5%, and Life Sciences at 25.8%.
- ▶ The Manufacturing and the Technology sectors, which account for the greatest numbers of companies in the Census, continued to have the lowest share of women directors. However, these two sectors did have the largest increases in women directors this year: the Manufacturing Sector rose by 5.0%, while those in the Technology Sector expanded by 4.5%.
- ▶ Five of the six industry sectors expanded their percentage of women executive officers: Life Sciences gained 5.7%, Financial Services 3.9%, Manufacturing 2.1%, Services 0.7%, and Retail, Wholesale & Consumer Goods 0.7%.
- ▶ In contrast, the Technology sector share fell by 0.7% resulting in women comprising just 6.9% of its executive officers.

The Leaders*

Women hold at least 30% of board seats at these 29 Census companies, eight more companies than last year.

- ▶ AMAG Pharmaceuticals, Inc.
- ▶ American Tower Corporation
- ▶ Avid Technology, Inc.
- ▶ Boston Private Financial Holdings, Inc.
- ▶ Boston Properties, Inc.
- ▶ Boston Scientific Corporation
- ▶ Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc.
- ▶ Eaton Vance Corp.
- ▶ Five Star Senior Living Inc.
- ▶ Forrester Research, Inc.
- ▶ GCP Applied Technologies Inc.
- ▶ General Electric Company
- ▶ Haemonetics Corporation
- ▶ The Hanover Insurance Group, Inc.
- ▶ Hologic, Inc.
- ▶ HubSpot, Inc.
- ▶ Insulet Corporation
- ▶ iRobot Corporation
- ▶ Iron Mountain Incorporated
- ▶ Ironwood Pharmaceuticals, Inc.
- ▶ J.Jill, Inc.
- ▶ LPL Financial Holdings Inc.
- ▶ MKS Instruments, Inc.
- ▶ Office Properties Income Trust
- ▶ Raytheon Company
- ▶ The RMR Group Inc.
- ▶ Senior Housing Properties Trust
- ▶ The TJX Companies, Inc.
- ▶ Waters Corporation

Women hold at least 30% of the executive officer positions at these 21 Census companies, 11 more companies than a year ago.

- ▶ Alexion Pharmaceuticals, Inc.
- ▶ Biogen Inc.
- ▶ The Boston Beer Company, Inc.
- ▶ Boston Private Financial Holdings, Inc.
- ▶ Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc.
- ▶ Cabot Corporation
- ▶ Cognex Corporation
- ▶ Collegium Pharmaceutical, Inc.
- ▶ Dunkin' Brands Group, Inc.
- ▶ Eaton Vance Corp.
- ▶ Five Star Senior Living Inc.
- ▶ Forrester Research, Inc.
- ▶ Haemonetics Corporation
- ▶ Hologic, Inc.
- ▶ J.Jill, Inc.
- ▶ Kadant Inc.
- ▶ Lantheus Holdings, Inc.
- ▶ LPL Financial Holdings Inc.
- ▶ Senior Housing Properties Trust
- ▶ State Street Corporation
- ▶ Waters Corporation

*Companies in bold have at least 30% women directors and 30% women executive officers.

The Laggards and the “Zero-Zero”

The two Census companies listed below have no women directors (i.e., the “laggards”) this year. This is nine fewer companies than last year. Only one company, noted in bold, compared to eight last year, has no women directors and no women executive officers (i.e., a “zero-zero”).

- ▶ Steel Connect, Inc.
- ▶ Vicor Corporation

The majority of the directors on both of these company boards are insiders: four of seven at Steel Connect, Inc. and five of eight at Vicor Corporation.

Special Analysis

Women in Leadership

As the foregoing pages show, the longstanding adage that “what gets measured, gets done” rings true in Massachusetts. By tracking – and publicizing – the number of women holding board and executive officer positions in the 100 largest public companies in Massachusetts, The Boston Club has focused attention on the rate at which these companies have diversified their leadership.

But behind all these numbers is another important story – that of the women whose names appear in Appendices B and C to this report. As more women have become directors of Census companies, they have increasingly taken leadership positions on those boards. And as more women have risen to the executive suites of these companies, they have filled virtually the entire gamut of key leadership roles. These women provide critical strategic value to their companies, are prepared to offer leadership to other companies by serving on their boards, and can be significant mentors and role models for talented women in the leadership pipeline.

On the boards of directors of the 100 Census companies,

- ▶ 6 women are CEO or executive board chair,¹
- ▶ 4 are non-executive board chairs,² and
- ▶ 13 are the lead directors.³

In addition, based on the identification of committee chairs provided in the most recent proxy statements of 99 Census companies:⁴

- ▶ 21 women lead audit committees,
- ▶ 18 chair compensation committees,
- ▶ 23 lead nominating and governance committees, and
- ▶ 15 chair other standing committees.

Women account for the highest board leadership positions (CEO, board chair, lead director) in nearly one-fourth of all Census companies.

With respect to executive officers, in addition to the six CEOs and executive board chair,

- ▶ At least 15 women hold top operational roles (e.g., COO, division president, general manager) in Census companies,
- ▶ 22 women serve as CFO, Treasurer or other senior financial officers,
- ▶ 22 head the human resources function at their companies,
- ▶ 18 women serve as general counsel or chief legal officer,
- ▶ 6 are chief marketing, chief sales or chief merchandising officers,
- ▶ 4 are chief medical, scientific or technology officers,
- ▶ 3 are chief administrative officers,
- ▶ 2 are chief compliance or chief risk officers,
- ▶ 2 are chief information officers, and
- ▶ 11 others lead functions as varied as strategy, communications, research, quality control, corporate affairs and investments, to name a few.

¹Mary Puma (Axcelis Technologies, Inc.), Katherine Potter (Five Star Senior Living Inc.), Shacey Petrovic (Insulet Corporation), Linda Heasley (J.Jill, Inc.), Mary Anne Heino (Lantheus Holdings, Inc.) and Carol Meyrowitz (The TJX Companies, Inc.).

²Sue Rataj (Cabot Corporation), Donna Abelli (Independent Bank Corp.), Julie McHugh (Ironwood Pharmaceuticals), and M. Kathleen Behrens (Sarepta Therapeutics, Inc.).

³Dorothy Puhly (Abiomed, Inc.), Pamela Reeve (American Tower Corporation), Liane Pelletier (ATN International, Inc.), Nancy Hawthorne (Avid Technology, Inc.), Linda Mason (Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc.), Donna Fraiche (Five Star Senior Living Inc.), Georgia Murray (Franklin Street Properties Corp.), Sally Crawford (Hologic, Inc.), Lorrie Norrington (HubSpot, Inc.), Deborah Ellinger (iRobot Corporation), Lisa Jones (Senior Housing Properties Trust), Christine King (Skyworks Solutions, Inc.) and Amelia Fawcett (State Street Corporation).

⁴J.Jill, Inc. identifies committee members but not chairs.

Many of the companies on whose boards and in whose executive suites these women serve are leading the way in terms of leadership diversity. For example, as noted on page 10 of this report, women constitute a critical mass of directors or executive officers in a record number of Census companies. And in ten of those companies, both the board and the executive suite consist of 30% women, a doubling of last year's total.

Furthermore, it is important to note that:

- ▶ Women constitute 50% or more of the independent directors on the boards of Boston Private Financial Holdings, Inc., Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc., Five Star Senior Living Inc. and Office Properties Income Trust;
- ▶ The appointment of Shacey Petrovic as CEO of Insulet Corporation resulted in parity on its board as well;
- ▶ At least 40% of the directors of General Electric Company, The RMR Group Inc., Senior Housing Properties Trust and The TJX Companies, Inc. are women;
- ▶ Parity has been reached in the executive suites of Alexion Pharmaceuticals, Inc., Boston Private Financial Holdings, Inc., Five Star Senior Living Inc., Ironwood Pharmaceuticals, Inc. and Senior Housing Properties Trust, and
- ▶ In addition, at least 40% of the executive officers of Bright Horizons Family Solutions Inc., Cabot Corporation, State Street Corporation and Waters Corporation are women.

It is unlikely to be coincidental that an increasing number of Census companies have multiple women on both their boards and in their executive suites. Women directors often take particular interest in the promotion and retention of women in their companies' pipelines. And women serving in top executive positions often can influence the expansion of the talent pool for new company directors to include more women. There is no question, moreover, that a growing number of male directors and executives have been championing leadership diversity in their companies. The progress reflected in this report would not have been achieved without their leadership.

Conclusion

What Gets Measured, Gets Done

We are believers of the adage, “what gets measured, gets done.” This is especially true when the measuring is done on a regular basis, and when people who can do something about the situation are provided the data. The Boston Club has taken this adage to heart: one of its principal strategies for advancing women to corporate leadership has been this annual Census report. By tracking – and publicizing – the number of women holding director and executive officer positions in the 100 largest public companies in Massachusetts, we have focused attention on the rate at which these companies have diversified their leadership.

In addition to tracking directors, executive officers and top-paid executives by gender, we have highlighted those companies that have elected or appointed a critical mass of women to their boards and executive suites. We have also identified those companies that have not, including the infamous “zero-zeroes”. In addition, we have noted the institutional investors and public officials who have used their financial influence to encourage board diversity, as well as companies that have exemplified best governance practices by, for example, providing clear and comprehensive disclosure of their approach to diversity in their annual proxy statements.

So where are we in 2019, after tracking this information since 2003? As reflected in the charts on page 4 of this report, over the past few years there have been steady increases in the number and percentage of women moving on to the boards of Census companies. This year for the first time, a majority of the new independent directors joining those boards have been women. Although there is still a long way to go until parity is reached, these Massachusetts figures compare favorably with those reported by Equilar for the Russell 3000 in June 2019, where women were 20% of the board members, and accounted for approximately 42% of new directors added.¹ By celebrating the progress demonstrated in the 2019 Census, and the companies that are approaching or have reached parity on their boards, we hope to encourage others to join their ranks.

Women of color, furthermore, are joining the boards of Census companies in greater numbers. When we first began to report this number in 2004, there were nine directors who were women of color. After scarcely budging for more than a decade, this figure increased from 18 to 29 over the past two years. As is the case for all women directors, there is room for improvement here, too. That said, the rate of progress likely reflects a growing awareness on the part of nominating committees of the large untapped talent pool comprised of women of color. In an effort to raise that awareness, The Thirty Percent Coalition, of which The Boston Club is a member, has been holding receptions across the country to introduce CEOs, general counsels and nominating committee chairs to board-ready women of color. Representatives of a number of the Census companies attended one of these receptions recently hosted in Boston by KPMG.

As highlighted in this year’s Special Analysis, more and more women directors of Census companies are taking leadership positions on their boards. This bodes well for their engagement in the recruitment of other women to the board, and for their being role models and advocates for other women in the organization.

Although progress with respect to women executive officers has been slower than for directors, the rate at which women have entered the executive suites of Census companies has increased over the past few years. Executive suites tend to be smaller in size than boards of directors, and thus present fewer opportunities for change; therefore, improvement in these figures is likely to take longer. Nevertheless, we are pleased to recognize the very real progress that has occurred over the years.

And then there are the “zero-zeroes”, or at least there were in the past; now there is only one. From the first Census report in 2003, we have noted the number of companies with no women either on their boards or in their executive suites. In our 2008 Census, we began to call out those companies that had no women in either of these roles. And in 2009, we started referring to these organizations as the “zero-zeroes”, of which there were 30 in both years! Fortunately, the “zero-zeroes” have dramatically fallen to just one company. We look forward to the complete elimination of this category.

In last year’s Census, we noted many of the positive trends reflected here and expressed the hope that the “winds of change” would be sustained. We are pleased that over the past year, those trends have continued and even sped up. We are not finished yet, however. With over 150 current independent directors aged 70 and older on Census company boards, we are focusing on the numerous vacancies that will appear over the next few years. We will pay special attention to those companies with only one woman director or no women executive officers, and to those in the Technology industry, which trails the other sectors in the diversification of its corporate leadership. We remain confident that what gets measured, will continue to get done in the future.

Partners in the Cause

For more than 40 years, The Boston Club has worked to advance women into positions of leadership. Increasing gender equity on corporate boards has been a major initiative since our founding. Throughout, we have welcomed the formation of other organizations with the same objective, and our partnerships with these organizations strengthen all of us. In particular, we would note the following:

Thirty Percent Coalition

The vision of the Thirty Percent Coalition is for senior leadership and corporate boardrooms to reflect the gender, racial and ethnic diversity of the United States workforce. The mission of the Coalition is to promote gender diversity, including women of color, on corporate boards. Board diversity has been broadly identified as one of the leading measurements in which there is a compelling correlation with improved shareholder value and company performance.

The Coalition provides a national forum for members to develop collaborative strategies to influence companies to increase gender diversity. For the first time, public companies, private equity, professional services firms, institutional investors, state treasurers and advocacy groups are working together in a unique alliance. In 2019, total membership represents over $5 trillion in assets under stewardship. As an example of the Coalition's impact, more than 300 companies have appointed a woman to their boards for the first time, following our "Adopt a Company" campaign.

2020 Women on Boards

2020 Women on Boards (2020WOB) achieved its namesake goal as of June 2019, announcing that 20.4% of the seats on Russell 3000 corporate boards are now held by women, a year sooner than projected. Originally Boston-based, Co-founders Stephanie Sonnabend and Malli Gero are proud that 2020WOB has played a role in this historic achievement. Over the past nine years, 2020WOB has built a respected global brand and become a formidable advocate for gender diversity. The campaign educates through research, analysis and workshops; collaborates through same-day events in more than thirty cities, with 10,000 attendees expected in 2019. Advocacy comes through acknowledging companies at 20% or greater women directors, and encouraging other companies to add more women directors. Beyond the year 2020, the campaign will continue to educate, collaborate and advocate toward the ultimate goal of gender balance on boards.

InterOrganization Network

Formed in 2004, the InterOrganization Network (ION) is a national consortium of 14 regional organizations in the United States whose mission is to increase the number of women appointed to corporate boards and to the executive suite. Representing 8 major regions and more than half of the 28 million women in management and professional roles across the nation, ION is the only federation of organizations engaged in this work.

Methodology

The list of the largest 100 companies appearing in the 2019 Census of Women Directors and Executive Officers is based on company net revenue as reported in the Boston Business Journal. Data are drawn from the most recent company filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) as of June 30, 2019. Companies are sent a summary of their data for verification of the information and for updating to reflect any changes that have taken place between the filing of their SEC reports and the Census cutoff date of June 30; those changes are incorporated into this report. “Top-Paid” data are drawn exclusively from the proxy statements and may include executive officers who left Census companies before June 30, 2019. All reasonable steps have been taken to ensure the accuracy of the data.

Acknowledgments

This Census report would not be possible without the research, data analysis and writing of the document by Bentley University's Susan M. Adams, Professor of Management and Patricia M. Flynn, Trustee Professor of Economics and Management, and by Toni G. Wolfman, former Chair of The Boston Club's Corporate Board Committee. The Boston Club is most appreciative of the time and expertise that these three individuals donate each year to make the Census a reality.

The Boston Club gratefully acknowledges Ernst & Young LLP's donation of essential services including design and layout, as well as the cost of publication. Amanti Melkamu contributed significantly in effectively communicating our findings and message.

Appreciation and thanks go to the corporate secretaries and other officers of the companies who responded to our requests to verify and update the 2019 Census data.
