RECESSION

CITATION FOR HONORARY DEGREE

CHARLES D. BAKER

Doctor of Commercial Science

Charlie Baker, architect of solutions and compromise, advocate for technology and innovation, we are proud to confer upon you today the honorary degree Doctor of Commercial Science.

Complex, significant challenges are your specialty. In 1999, Harvard Pilgrim Health Care was approaching bankruptcy when you stepped up as president and CEO. Your talent for thoughtful but decisive action led the organization back to profitability. The ability to find common ground with health care leaders would continue to serve you well.

As executive-in-residence at General Catalyst Partners, you were a valuable resource for mission-driven companies — a champion for “responsible innovations” and trusted partner in their work to make the world a better place.

Over two terms as governor of Massachusetts, you became the most popular governor in the nation. We credit the accolades to your “get it done” mantra, which always put progress above partisanship. With respectful nods to innovation and technology, you also knew the best tool for any job was listening. These qualities were essential in leading the commonwealth for eight years, particularly as data and viewpoints raged throughout the COVID-19 pandemic. But the pandemic did not singularly define your years on Beacon Hill. The record will reflect significant investments in K-12 education, eliminating the budget deficit while cutting taxes, and forwarding the commonwealth’s commitment to renewable energy to combat climate change.

Today, as president of the NCAA, you stand on a campus where sports at every level are a force for building skills, pride and community. And we stand with you on the work ahead. That is, to preserve the tremendous opportunity that athletics presents while protecting the safety and rights of players. You assess the challenge with typical, refreshing simplicity: “We have to figure it out.” Know that we have every confidence that you will.

Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and by the Bentley University Board of Trustees, we confer upon you, Charles D. Baker, the degree Doctor of Commercial Science, honoris causa. We hold it both an honor and a pleasure to do so.

E. LaBrent Chrite, PhD
