

Tina S. Sheldon, BS, BSN, JD

Tina S. Sheldon is a nurse attorney with extensive ethics and compliance experience. Currently, Ms. Sheldon is a Lecturer on Law at New England Law and teaches a bioethics and law course that explores the nexus between medical ethics, research ethics, business ethics, and the law.

Prior to joining New England Law's faculty, Ms. Sheldon held several senior compliance officer roles. Ms. Sheldon's experience crosses industries from healthcare to higher education, from public to private sectors, and from non-profit to for-profit organizations. Specifically, Ms. Sheldon held senior compliance roles at a national, publicly traded healthcare and senior living company, a non-profit academic medical center, a public medical school, and a private university. In addition, Ms. Sheldon practiced law in-house, for the government, and in private practice. She also served as a member of an institutional review board and a medical ethics committee.

Ms. Sheldon received a BS in Human Development and Family Studies from the University of Vermont, a BS in Nursing from the University of Vermont, and a JD from the University of North Carolina.
