Program Overview

The Discover Bentley Program welcomes high-achieving Black, Latinx, Asian American and Native American students who are interested in pursuing a graduate degree in business to explore the options available at Bentley University's McCallum Graduate School of Business. This program allows prospective students to meet with faculty, students and admission representatives to learn more about the MBA and Master of Science programs at Bentley. Selected candidates will be invited to attend sample classes on campus and receive information about the admission and financial aid processes.

The resources Bentley provides to their business students are unbelievable. From the technological classrooms to the opportunity to become Bloomberg certified, it was a great feeling to be at a 'real' business school. A business school that integrates actual work into the classroom, offers global opportunities, and experiential learning.
